

Warm up your walking shoes!

“500 Years on the Move for Hunger” starts June 4!

On Sunday, June 4, plan to worship in walking shoes and comfortable clothes. Following 10:30 a.m. worship, we’ll be kicking off “500 Years on the Move for Hunger” by walking together south to Leetsdale, west to Vitamin Cottage and returning by way of Alameda.

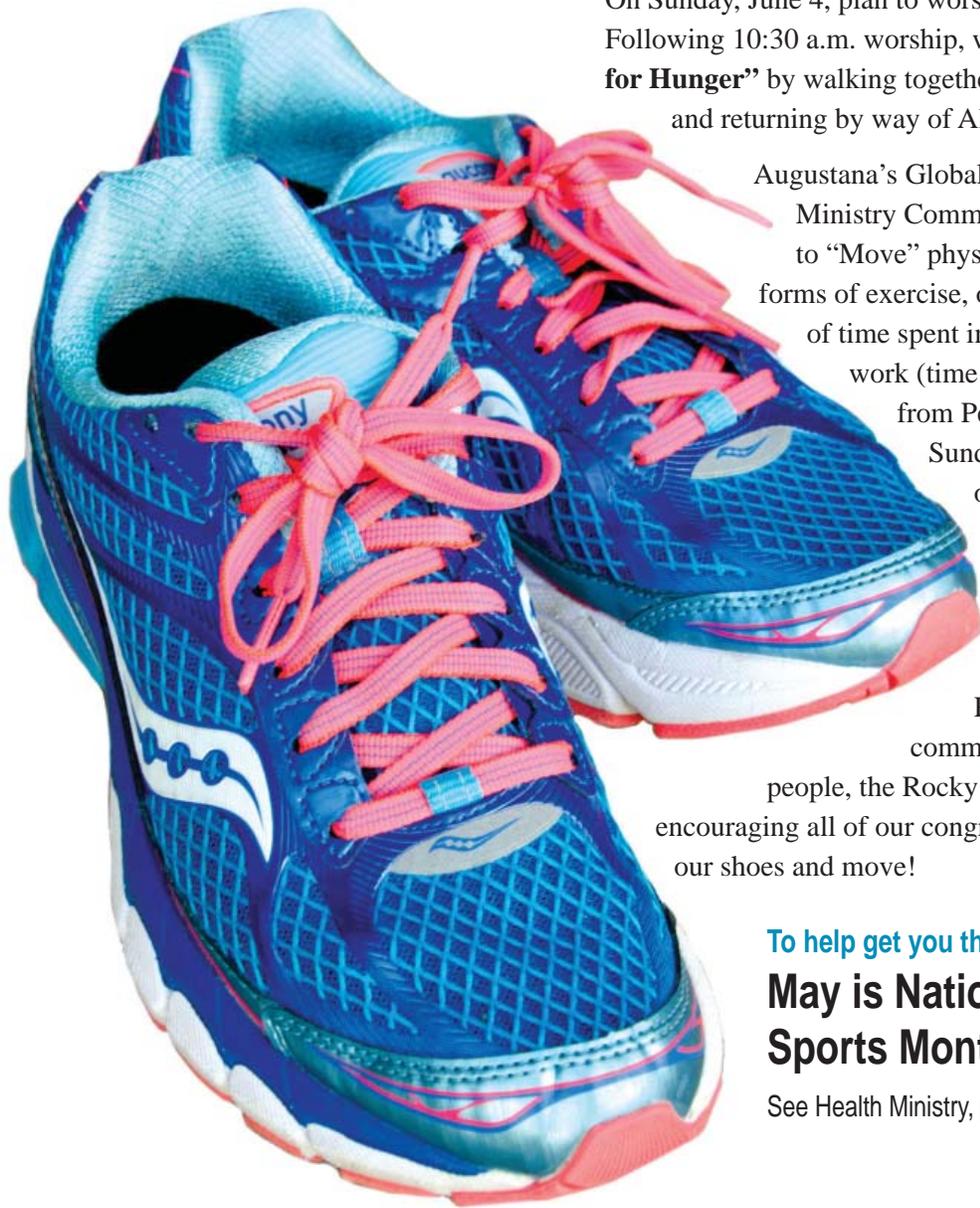

Augustana’s Global Mission Team in partnership with its Health Ministry Committee are encouraging individuals and teams to “Move” physically by walking, biking, running or other forms of exercise, or to “Move” spiritually through commitments of time spent in intercessory prayer, meditation, or volunteer work (time will be converted to miles) in the 150 days from Pentecost on June 4 through Reformation Sunday on October 29. Participating individuals or teams will keep track of their “miles” and either donate or solicit monies, based on their miles, toward the ELCA World Hunger program.

In honor of the 500th anniversary of the Reformation and recognizing Martin Luther’s commitment to economic justice for all of God’s people, the Rocky Mountain Synod’s Hunger Network is encouraging all of our congregations to “Move for Hunger.” Let’s lace-up our shoes and move!

To help get you thinking about “Move for Hunger” . . .

Health Ministry

May is National Physical Fitness and Sports Month

National Health Information Center

Regular physical activity is good for everyone’s health, and people of all ages and body types can be physically active. National Physical Fitness and Sports Month is a great time to spread the word about the benefits of getting active.

Here are just a few benefits of physical activity:

- Children and adolescents: Physical activity can improve muscular fitness, bone health and heart health.
- Adults: Physical activity can lower the risk of heart disease, type 1 diabetes, and some types of cancer.
- Older adults: Physical activity can lower the risk of falls and improve cognitive functioning (like learning and judgment skills).

Communities, health professionals, and families can work together to create opportunities for everyone to get more physically activity. We can use this month to raise awareness about the benefits of physical activity and spread the word about fun ways to get moving.

Physical activity guidelines recommend for adults:

- Aim for 2 hours and 30 minutes of moderate aerobic activity each week.
- Moderate activity includes things like walking fast, dancing, swimming, and yard work.
- Do muscle-strengthening activities like lifting weights or using exercise bands at least two days a week

Here are just a few ideas:

- Encourage families to make small changes like taking a walk after dinner or going for a bike ride.
- Join fitness programs at Augustana:
 - Augustana Firm Believers, Monday, Wednesday, and Fridays, 9:45–10:45 a.m., Fellowship Hall;
 - Yoga, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 5:30–6:30 p.m., Fellowship Hall
 - Trailblazers, organized hikes on Saturdays (see page 12)
- Plan to join Augustana’s “500 years on the Move for Hunger” (see cover).

Pastors

Jesus said “I give you a new commandment, that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, you also should love one another.”

John 13:34

This past week I was driving back to Augustana on Parker

Road. It was 3:30 on Monday afternoon, so if you travel frequently on that stretch, you are already getting the picture! There were too many cars, the traffic lights were not synchronized, my lane was moving too slow, and I couldn't see around the truck in front of me. Safe to say that everyone behind their individual steering wheels was irritated.

When we came to an intersection, the truck finally moved to turn left, so I could see that there was a large empty spot in my lane. Speeding up and feeling like I was finally getting somewhere, I pulled up behind a car and was confronted with this bumper sticker: “Love others like you love yourself.” Snap! (or however you would express it), I was brought up short. Loving others while driving that day was not on my mind!

It's so easy to get caught up in our own daily grind, whether that involves a long list of things to accomplish, or just a few activities. We tend to forget about other people and focus mostly on what we want and what we think we need.

The early Christians tried to live out Jesus' teaching in the days and years following the first Easter. They cared for people inside and outside their community, and reached out to help anyone in need. They saw themselves as living differently from the prevailing culture of affluence and power. In fact, one of the early Roman descriptions of these followers of Jesus was “See how they love one another!”

These post-Easter days are a good time to remember that simple teaching of Jesus: “Love one another as I have loved you.” When we see other people not as obstacles, but as fellow travelers on the journey of life and faith, we share the grace that we've already received from Christ. How will you live differently tomorrow as you live out Jesus' words?

Pastor Ann

Many people find Augustana online

before they ever step in the building for worship. One family told me that they searched key words “nearby churches” to start. That's it. This is similar to how many of us check things out before showing up whether it's a new doctor or new store or new church—pick a few key words and see what pops up. Listening to visitors and watching Augustana's recent video makes me think of the different ways each of us hear the good news, wonders, and talks about it.

Good news is on my mind as the Easter season goes live (pun intended). I've been known to say that there are as many different reasons for being in a pew on any given Sunday as there are people. There are also similarities. Each of us has our story of how we became a part of the Augustana congregation. We also have a reason why we stay. For some, staying a part of the congregation is religious (I mean this in a good way), for some it's faithful, for some it's family, for some it's music . . .

The story about what draws and keeps people in one place for a while is what has my curiosity piqued. Like a lot of pastors, I would say first that it's about the Holy Spirit calling us by the gospel. This likely doesn't shock anyone. But our life experiences also form us into listening, experiencing, and talking about faith in particular ways. Join me for a conversation about good news (a.k.a. evangelism) on Sunday, May 14, 9:15-10:15 a.m., in the Anna Paulson Room. There will be scripture, conversation, and brainstorming. And, you can also bring whatever questions of faith and life are burning for you (answers possible, not promised). See you then.

Peace, Pastor Caitlin

Thank you to Vivian Bengtson, Erin Brown, Nick Massie, Al Spies, Braxton Stuart, Valerie Taron, and Jeff Ziebarth for their time and thoughtfulness as interviewees.

Local/Global Mission

How your offerings work to meet people's basic needs

Last month's Tower highlighted five of the ten organizations financially supported by Augustana that provide basic human needs. Augustana's Social Ministry Committee manages the distribution of funds to local and state organizations that provide services to citizens of need in our community and to Lutheran-affiliated Mission Partners.

Many of these organizations offer volunteer opportunities as well as cash and in-kind donations. For more information on Augustana's Outreach programs, go to their individual websites or to www.augustanadenver.org/volunteer/outreach. Read on to learn more about the remaining five organizations you support with your regular offerings . . . and thank you!

SafeHouse Denver provides a broad spectrum of quality services to women, children and youth who have been impacted by domestic violence; builds awareness that there are options available to victims of domestic violence; and increases community awareness of domestic violence and community accountability for the intervention and prevention of domestic abuse (www.safehouse-denver.org).

Maria Droste Counseling Center is a community-based, nonprofit organization serving low-income, uninsured individuals and families by providing high-quality, affordable mental health services to underserved populations in the community regardless of their ability to pay (www.mariadroste.org).

Urban Peak Denver serves homeless and runaway youth providing them with a safe, caring, stable environment and assisting them in permanently exiting street life. Urban Peak believes in the potential of every youth to contribute to our world and helps to give them the tools to realize their potential (www.urbanpeak.org).

Work Options for Women combats homelessness and poverty by providing women with the confidence and skills they need to become gainfully and permanently employed. WOW's program is the only hands-on culinary, job-training program in Denver that includes intensive individual case management and job placement assistance for low-income students who face incredible barriers to employment (www.workoptions.org).

ELCA World Hunger
Evangelical Lutheran Church in America
God's work. Our hands.

Tanzania A new life

When Brian was born prematurely, his doctors told his mother that he would never walk, talk or function normally. Ashamed of his diagnosis, his family, kept him at home. That was until Building a Caring Community (BCC) staff visited Brian's family and invited Brian to enroll in the therapeutic day program.

He flourished at the day program, and at age 3, he began to walk. At 5, he was enrolled in a primary school that serves children with special needs.

Brian is one of more than 200 children with intellectual and physical disabilities served by the BCC program, a partnership between the Northern Diocese of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Tanzania and Mosaic International, a faith-based organization in Nebraska serving more than 3,000 people with intellectual disabilities.

Today, there are 10 BCC day centers, supported in part by your gifts to ELCA World Hunger, helping families move beyond isolation and stigma and into full participation in their communities. In addition to caring for children at the center, children, like Brian, with complicated medical needs receive regular physicals and visits to doctors and hospitals when necessary. The BCC also trains parents to care for special needs, sets up projects that increase family incomes, and provides job opportunities for young people with disabilities beyond school age.

For Betsy Buschkemper, a BCC volunteer and a pediatric nurse, working with the BCC has moved her from "feeling pity" for children like Brian to celebrating "the potential and the happiness and joy they feel and know in life that they wouldn't have had a chance for otherwise," she said. "Brian has a shot at a normal life now and is a happy little boy."

Thanks to your gifts to ELCA World Hunger, children in Tanzania are moving from isolation to active participation in the community. Thank you for helping our church do what God has called us to do.

Your gifts to ELCA World Hunger support innovative solutions that fight hunger and poverty in nearly 60 countries around the world, including the United States. To give a gift to ELCA World Hunger, use the special envelopes in Augustana's pew pockets and make checks payable to Augustana, or give online at www.augustanadenver.org.

To be part of this trip we invite you during the month of May to purchase a trading card or two! Each card has a picture of a youth or adult attending the trip. Please keep this card in a handy place so you may also pray for them. A suggested donation per card is $5.
